U.S. Treasury and Government Agency Obligations

Mutual fund dividends that include income from certain U.S. Treasury and Government Agency obligations may be exempt from state income taxes. A portion of the ordinary income dividends paid to you by the Weitz Funds may qualify for this pass-through exemption. State law varies as to whether and what percentage of dividend income attributable to Federal obligations is exempt from state income tax. Please consult your tax adviser for more information.

Qualified Dividends

The amount eligible for qualified dividend treatment is shown above as a percentage of total ordinary income. This amount is reported to you on your Form 1099-DIV, Box 1b. Qualified dividends are taxed at a maximum federal tax rate of 20%. A shareholder must satisfy a 61-day holding period with respect to any distributions of qualifying dividends in order to obtain the benefit of the lower tax rate. Please consult your tax adviser for more information.

Corporate Dividends Received Deduction

The amount eligible for the corporate dividends received deduction as a percentage of total ordinary income is: Balanced – 83.34%; Core Plus Income – 0.02%; Short Duration Income – 0.00%. [This information is relevant only to corporate shareholders and does not apply to non-corporate shareholders.]

Form 1099-DIV

Distributions of less than $10 are not required to be reported on Form 1099-DIV. These amounts are reported to you on your year-end account statement and are required to be included on your income tax return.

* Income attributable from investments in U.S. Treasury securities expressed as a percentage of ordinary income.

† Income attributable from investments in U.S. Government Agency issues expressed as a percentage of ordinary income. (Federal Home Loan Banks and Federal Farm Credit Banks)
